What to consider when designing a program:

What is the theme of my program?

Share your objectives with us to help you find the best possible program suited to your needs and travel options.

What kind of program do I want to develop?

Teacher-Led

A program where a faculty member supervises the participants as an advisor or program leader but does not teach a faculty-led course on-site. The faculty represents their home institution and are responsible exclusively for their own students. Participants may be either students of, or enrolled through, the faculty member's home institution.

Faculty-led collaborative program

A program where a faculty member designs and participates in the program as an instructor. The faculty represents their home institution and teach a course on-site exclusively to their own students. Students take one class with their accompanying faculty member(s) and one class with Nebrija Arts Institute.

Art, Food & Culture

Academic programs that are offered on a for credit and non-credit basis which explore a variety of Spanish Art, food and culture topics. These programs can be tailored for adult professionals, Long Life Learners, and students of all levels.

When can I take the program?

At Nebrija Arts Institute, programs can be hosted at any time of the year. Summer programs are held during our 2-, 3-, and 4-weeks sessions in the summer (from mid-June to the end of July).

Programs may also be held during January intersession, in accordance with the fall/spring session dates, as well as according to customized dates collaboratively developed with the Special Programs Department.

What will be the academic content of my program?

This will depend on the academic needs of the home institution and if the program is for credit or not for credit. The program may include, but not be limited to: traditional credit courses, classes, lectures, guided visits and workshops. Some programs may benefit from the inclusion of field learning, experiential learning and/or service-learning coursework.

What are the housing options?

Nebrija Arts Institute offers a variety of housing options for students and faculty through Nebrija Residences. Housing is normally arranged in dorm accommodation in the city Center historical center, however, depending on availability as well as in hotels.

These options depend on the length and type of program, time of year and budget.

What other elements will my program include?

Students and faculty will have full use of all Nebrija Arts Institute facilities including computer labs and printing facilities, Wi-Fi internet connection in all Nebrija University buildings & dormitories, free access to the library, as well as having the full support of our department for arrival orientation, counseling and advising and access to our full program of extracurricular cultural activities.
